

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A termination coating for use with surface mount components for electrical devices, such as base metal multilayer ceramic capacitors. The 5 coating is capable of application at low temperatures and provides flexibility and humidity resistance to the component. The termination coating may contain copper powder and/or copper flakes. A method for applying a termination coating and curing the coating at temperatures below 300°C.

10